

Finding a floor

Market Review

Malaysia: The FBM KLCI (+0.04%) snapped a 4-day losing streak as mild signs of bargain hunting emerges. The lower liners ended mixed, while the technology sector (+3.2%) rallied to rebound from near 7-months low, taking cue from the positive developments on Nasdaq overnight.

Global markets: Wall Street advanced as the Dow (+1.0%) was driven by the buying frenzy in AI-related stocks, while there were signs of progress over the on-going debt negotiations. The European stockmarkets also advanced, but Asia stockmarkets ended mostly in red.

The Day Ahead

The FBM KLCI booked marginal gains after enduring a volatile session following the softer CPI data for Malaysia in April 2023. In light of the brighter outlook of US debt-ceiling deal, bargain hunting activities may emerge on the local bourse, tracking the rallies on Wall Street last Friday. Investors may also monitor Malaysia's and US S&P Global Manufacturing PMI, as well as US unemployment rate this week. Commodities wise, the Brent crude oil traded above USD76, while the CPO price climbed above RM3,500.

Sector focus: We believe the rallies on Wall Street Nasdaq last Friday should spill over to the local technology stocks. Besides, the beaten-down energy sector may see some buying interest amidst economy recovery. Poultry sector may gain momentum prior to the potential lifting of poultry ceiling prices after June 2023.

FBMKLCI Technical Outlook

Bloomberg

The FBM KLCI finished marginally higher as the key index continued to stay below its daily EMA9 and EMA20. Technical indicators however, remained negative as the MACD Histogram extended a negative bar, while the RSI hovered below 50. Next support is envisaged along 1,370-1,390, while the resistance is pegged along 1,440-1,460.
