

Negative momentum persisted

Market Review

Malaysia: The FBM KLCI (-0.1%) bucked the mostly positive regional peers to edge lower for the 4th straight session, dragged down by weakness in consumer and banking heavyweights. The lower liners also advanced, while the technology sector (+1.2%) outperformed the mostly positive sectorial peers.

Global markets: Wall Street pullback from the previous session rally as the Dow fell -0.6%, dragged down by profit taking activities in mega cap technology heavyweights. The European stockmarkets also retreated, but Asia stockmarkets closed mostly upbeat.

The Day Ahead

The FBM KLCI remained bearish as investors selling pressure in banking and selected consumer heavyweights, while investors piled into small and mid-cap stocks. We deem the pullback on Wall Street overnight as a healthy consolidation, while the local bourse may track regional markets' uptrend move and bargain hunting activities may emerge. Investors may monitor Japan's and Eurozone's GDP, as well as China's inflation rate to gauge the aggressiveness of global interest rate hikes. Commodities wise, the Brent crude oil traded above US76 per barrel, while the CPO traded above RM3,350.

Sector focus: The financial sector may see a rebound following last week's sell-down. Besides, renewable energy could continue to be the trend in line with government's initiative to expand renewable energy use in Malaysia. Besides, the property related counters may shine amid optimism over economic recovery.

FBMKLCI Technical Outlook

Bloomberg

The FBM KLCI dipped for the fourth straight session, closing just above the 1,380 level. Technical indicators remained negative as the MACD Histogram extended a negative bar, while the RSI hovered below 50. Support is located at 1,370, while resistance is envisaged along 1,400-1,440.
